

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation. This country seems to be going backwards & it's the job of the FCC & other government organizations to enforce the laws that have been made to help keep this country a free & fair democracy!

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. How can we continue to trust the news media or even our government when this sort of thing is allowed to happen? Anyone with any common sense realizes that this program that Sinclair wants to air is nothing more than political propaganda. And as far as if the FCC has the authority to force them not to show it - of course it does!! I would rather look at Janet Jackson's bare breast (and I was totally against that) then to know that our news media in this country is allowed to go to such an extreme measure to get the person they want for president re-elected!

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
